

Native Voices Climate Change Application

2009

Qualifications

Project Word's complete writer's guidelines and qualifications are available at www.projectword.org.

- 3–5 years experience writing for 100k-circulation newspapers or major magazines
- Experience in long-form feature writing or narrative journalism
- Background working with ecology and biocultural relationships
- Extensive experience working in, living with, or reporting on indigenous communities
- Background in cultural anthropology, ethnobotany, or related fields a plus

Name _____

E-mail Address _____

Phone Number _____

Biography (100 words)

Briefly tell us about yourself. Referring to Project Word writers' guidelines and qualifications, list any personal or professional background or experience you think relevant.

Editorial References

Please list editors who have worked closely with you.

(Please see page 2)

Proposal (200-word maximum)

Proposals on climate change impacts in indigenous communities are welcome but not required. In any case, please answer the following question: How are indigenous communities different from other communities you have covered, and given your experiences reporting on indigenous communities, what would you keep in mind going into this assignment? Please ground this brief essay in your experiences, providing specific examples.

On separate pages, please include:

- Cover letter: a one-page statement of interest, with any additional details on experience or background
- Clips from three editors you've worked with
- Any additional material for proposal

Please mail to:

*Attn: Application
Project Word
PO Box 311
Great Barrington, MA 01230*